

Finding Best Fit Colleges

Finding Best Fit Colleges

Rob Franek, The Princeton Review's National College Expert, author of "THE BEST 384 COLLEGES" and "COLLEGES THAT PAY YOU BACK" will present a seminar for college-bound students and their families. Rob will share his professional advice on the college admissions process including:

- How to Be a Savvy College Shopper and Applicant
Smartest ways to winnow a "hit" list of "best-fit" schools
How test scores affect admission and aid prospects: tips to "up" your scores
- Insider Scoop on Colleges
How individual colleges fared in the student survey for the book
What colleges are really looking for in applicants
- How to Get the Most Financial Aid
Where the money is when it comes to grants, scholarships and financial aid awards
Key facts about the FAFSA (the most important aid application you'll need to submit)

Date: Tuesday, November 20, 2018

Location: Oceanside High School

Time: 7pm-8:30pm

REGISTRATION REQUIRED

To enroll register online at:

<https://tinyurl.com/y8acr5aj>

As The Princeton Review's chief expert on higher education issues, Rob Franek directs the annual surveys of college, business school, and law school students upon which the well-known Princeton Review rankings are based.

As lead author of the annual "Best Colleges" guide, Rob visits more than 50 colleges a year and has been a lecturer and panelist on college admissions for audiences of educators, parents and students.

Rob has been sourced on college, graduate school, and career topics by a wide range of media from Time to The Chronicle of Higher Education and from USA TODAY to the Wall Street Journal. He has appeared on ABC "Good Morning America," CBS "This Morning," and NBC "Today" as well as several CNN and FOX programs, National Public Radio and network radio shows.

800-2Review | PrincetonReview.com

The Princeton Review is not affiliated with Princeton University.