Dear Oceanside Families:

As you may have heard in the news, teens across the region have been engaging in dangerous and potentially fatal activities while bike riding in their local communities. These acts range from riders swarming around vehicles on main roads to playing “chicken” with oncoming traffic in an attempt to make drivers swerve. Students are using social media and texts to organize themselves before taking to the roads and even parking lots with the goal of causing widespread disturbances.

As partners in education, I strongly encourage all families to have conversations with their children about peer pressure, the importance of bike safety and the detrimental effects this type of reckless behavior can have – not only on the child’s life, but on the lives of others.

The safety and security of our students is of paramount concern for the entire Oceanside School District and we thank you in advance for your collaborative help on this matter.

Sincerely,

Dr. Phyllis S. Harrington
